2. I alerted Matt Baird to the fact that [REDACTED] tour in [REDACTED] expires next summer and that he should be prepared to absorb him somewhere in the Office of Training. 25X1A6a

3. I talked with Emmett Echols, Dick Bissell and General Cabell separately about our separation compensation regulation which is now at the Bureau of the Budget. I urged General Cabell to call Mr. Stans and tell him how strongly we felt about the twelve-month compensation provision and also that if it were reduced too far we might as well not put it on the books. General Cabell agreed to do this and it was his inclination not to accept any compromise. He felt that if we could not get the twelve-month provision he would rather wait until the Director returned. However, I also asked him to get Mr. Stans' permission, if possible, for us to go ahead and present this to our Congressional Committees even though the amount of separation compensation had not been finally settled. 6. I attended the Project Review Committee Meeting at which, among other projects, the Machine Translation and the Videograph Projects were submitted. There was considerable controversy over both of these Projects, with the Automatic Data Processing and the Mechanical Linguistics Advisory Committees feeling that the Projects had not been properly staffed out. The Videograph Project was referred back to the Committee which is to make its final recommendation by the close of business on the 29th. The Machine Translation Project was approved subject to ratification by the Agency Mechanical Linguistics Advisory Committee.

7. I discussed with Matt Baird at some length the possibility of the Office of Training using [REDACTED] and again told him not to make any commitments on this.

25X1A9a 8. I also discussed with Matt Baird the possibility of the Office of Training using [REDACTED] in some capacity. I told him that as usual I was reluctant to see OTR take people that the Clandestine Services could find no other place for; however, inas-
25X1A9a much as [REDACTED] did serve as the Chief of Training [REDACTED] and did a fine job, I had no objection to his being used in OTR again. 25X1A6b

25X1A 9. I discussed with Matt Baird, [REDACTED] future and decided that she 25X1A9a should remain where she is for the time being. I also told him that I would probably nominate her as the DD/S representative on the new Personnel Development Board when it is established. Although he told [REDACTED] that he could not promote her at this time he indicated he thought that he could find some way to do this after 8 July.

10. Matt Baird also told me that [REDACTED] was a candidate for the 25X1A9a JOT Program but that he did not have his degree [REDACTED] 25X1A s story is that his degree is being withheld merely because he hasn't prepared his final thesis. Matt is inclined to turn him down and I told him to handle the case on its merits.
